SOC100H1: Introduction to Sociology

Title:

Introduction to Sociology I : Sociological Perspectives

Abbreviated Title:

Intro Introduction to Soc-Soc Perspectives Sociology

Description:

Previous:

Sociologists investigate how social relations shape human behaviour. By systematically observing social milieux, conducting surveys, analyzing official statistics, inspecting historical documents, and carrying out experiments, they analyze the opportunities and constraints that help to make people what they are in different social contexts. This course introduces students to the sociological perspective and sociological approaches by investigating a wide range of human behaviours and institutions. Topics include social inequality, race and ethnicity, gender, sexuality, culture and politics among others.< /p>

New:

This course will challenge your views on a wide range of issues that affect us all. It will also excite your interest in a unique sociological way of understanding your world. We will analyze the globalization of culture, emerging patterns of Sociology (FAS), Department of class, race, and gender inequality in Canada and internationally, criminal and deviant behaviour, and so on. You will learn to understand these and other pressing social issues by analyzing the way the social world is organized. These topics are further taken up in the sequel to this course, SOC150: Introduction to Sociology II:Sociological Inquiries. < / p>

SOC150H1: Introduction to Sociology - Sociological Inquiries

Title:

Introduction to Sociology II : Sociological Inquiries

Abbreviated Title:

Intro to Soc II : Soc Sociological Inquiries

Description:

Previous:

Using topics such as the mass media, crime and deviance, education, health, or others, this course continues to examine what is Sociology, its relationship with common sense and other disciplines, and the nature and goals of sociological research. Students will also have an opportunity to learn and develop important skills useful to prepare for second year courses and beyond. < / p>

New:

In the sequel to SOC100H: Introduction to Sociology I:Sociological Perspectives, this course will explore in more depth the topic of social inequality and the contemporary debates that animate sociology. We may like to think of ourselves as perfectly free but powerful social forces open up some opportunities and close off others, constraining our freedom and helping to make us what we are. By examining the operation of these social forces, sociology can help us know ourselves. The course is also about skills-building, skills useful not only for success at U of T, but beyond the walls of the university. < / p>
